MORE VICTORY.

Probable Fall of Wei Hai Wei Naval Station.

COMPANION TO PORT ARTHUR.

Talk of Peace Negotiations Renewed—They Must Come Soon—Li Hung Chang Reported as a Rebel—China's Bad Fix.

London, Dec. 1.—A dispatch to the Central News from Chee Foo says that it is rumored there that the Japanese threaten to capture Wei Hai Wei and that the Chinese are fleeing from the place. The excitement at Chee Foo is intense.

The warship Chen Yuen has been repaired.

News is received of a rebellion in the provinces of Kwang Tung and Kiang Si. One thousand troops have been sent to restore order.

China's Bad Fix.

London, Nov. 30.—A dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette, from Chee Foo says that terms between China and Japan have almost been arranged through the intervention of the United States. It is also added that the feeling of security is now so strong that foreign ladies are returning to Pekin.

A dispatch from Shanghai says that great excitement prevails in naval circles there, in consequence of the departure of British warships from the port under sealed orders. The presence of three British cruisers opposite the estuary of Hien Tang Kiang is considered to show that Great Britain has decided to more than forestall her rivals in the East and obtain a voice in the settlement to be arrived at between Japan and China.

The dispatch adds that fears are increasing that Li Hung Chang will place himself at the head of the army which he has created for his own purposes. The troops are reported to be arriving from different parts of the country to be under Li Hung Chang.

THE NICARAGUAN TROUBLE.

Statement That England Refused Recognition Is Denied.

London, Nov. 30.—It is learned that Great Britain has informed Nicaragua that she could not recognize certain decrees in regard to land registration. The statement that Great Britain refused to recognize the new Nicaraguan government at Bluefields is most positively denied. The question was not one of the sovereignty of Nicaragua over the Mosquito coast, which Great Britain had already acknowledged in the above mentioned treaty.

Washington, Nov. 30.—A cable to the Navy department received to-day announces the arrival of the United States cruiser Columbia at Calmenza. No such port is known here and inquiry is being made, but it is supposed to be near Santiago, Cuba. Her movements are of importance in consequence of recent sensational and warlike dispatches stating that the Columbia was hurrying to Bluefields.

Colima in Eruption.

Guadalajara, Mex., Nov. 30.—Another terrific eruption of the Colima volcano occurred Wednesday night and the scene as witnessed from this city was a grand one.

No definite reports have been received from the immediate section surrounding the volcano, but it is feared that there was a severe loss of property and probably life.

Princess Louise Dead.

Copenhagen, Nov. 30.—Princess Louise, the sister of the king of Denmark and aunt of the dowager empress of Russia, and of the Princess of Wales is dead. Princess Louise was born Nov. 18, 1820, and on Aug. 3, 1840, was nominated abbess of the convent of Itzenhoe, Holstein.

Duke George Alive.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 30.—There is no truth in the report from Odessa that the Grand Duke George, the Czarowitz, died Sunday.

BANDITS LOCATED.

A Number of Them are Camped Near Muskogee.

Muskogee, I. T., Nov. 30.—Again the citizens of Muskogee have reason to believe that lives and property are in peril. This afternoon about 5 o'clock Jim French and four other members of the Bill Cook gang of outlaws, were seen six miles south of Muskogee on Cody Creek. They rode to their present quarters after the robbery in Checotah Wednesday night, and have occupied them ever since.

About 5 o'clock this afternoon two colored men who harbor the bandits, rode into Muskogee and purchased a saddle and a supply of ammunition, and were mounting to return to the gang when a deputy marshal arrested one of them and attempted to arrest the other, but was too slow. When searched by the jailer money was found on the suspect's person that Mose Lafayette identified as being some of the money stolen from his store on Wednesday. The colored men were evidently sent to Muskogee to survey the ground and get on to the officers' movements. The news of the arrest and the location of the bandits created no little excitement in town.

LIFE SAVERS.

A Creditable Record Made by the Service in 1894.

Washington, Nov. 30. Superintendent Kimball of the Life Saving Service, detailing the splendid record made by his bureau in the cause of humanity, states that 350 vessels in distress were aided by the life saving service during the year. There were on board these vessels 1,661 persons, of whom 3,993 were saved, and only 6 lost. The number of ship wrecked persons who received succor at the stations was 658.

The estimated value of the vessels and cargoes involved in the disasters was nearly $10,000,000. Of this amount $7,688,000 was saved. In addition to the number of persons saved from vessels there were 83 others rescued who had fallen from wharves, piers, etc., and who would have perished without the aid of the life saving crews. The number of disasters by reason of storms was greater than in any previous year since the introduction of the present system.

The cost of the maintenance of the service during the year was only a little over a million and a quarter dollars.

During the past year the telephone lines of the service have proved more emphatically than ever proved their indispensible value as an aid to prompt and efficient life saving operations. On every necessary occasion, two or more crews have been summoned without delay. The lines have been extended and improved as much as possible.

The system continues to attract foreign attention, and during the past year the details of its operation have been examined in person by the representatives of a royal commission of Great Britain, who treats of it in his report with warm comendation, and recommends its adoption in his own country.

A VILLAGE BURNED.

A Large Portion of Rockwood, Tenn., Destroyed.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 30.—Nearly the entire business portion of Rockwood, Tenn., on the Cincinnati Southern railway, is in ashes. Fire broke out at 9:30 p. m. in the basement of the Beavis drug store. It went from that to the Shelby residence and was then beyond control. At 11 o'clock the two structures mentioned, together with the Christian church, the opera house, the First National bank and several other buildings, had been destroyed at a heavy loss, and the fire is still burning.

THE CLOSING SESSION.

St. Louis, Nov. 30.—Not more than 50 delegates were in attendance at the closing session of the Transmississippi congress to-day. The most important resolution adopted was one favoring the allotment by severalty of lands in Oklahoma, the giving to natives the rights of citizenship and recommending that the territory be admitted to Statehood.

Omaha was selected as the place for holding the next congress in 1895.

24 HOUR RACE.

Begun in the Madison Square Bicycle Tournament.

New York, Nov. 30.—The fourth day of the international bicycle tournament in Madison Square Garden proved one of the most interesting of the week.

The principal interest centered in the great 24-hour race, which was began at 2:19 p. m., with 25 starters, among them being Martin, Starbuck, Lesna, Delisis, Meizel, Eaton, Ashinger, Van Emburg, Walker, Albert and Golden. The first 20 miles were uneventful, barring a few falls. The riders held well together during the early part of the evening. Martin retired from the race shortly after 11 o'clock with 29 miles four laps to his credit. He had been bruised in a tumble and felt that his chances of winning were few.

Incendiaries at Leadville.

Leadville, Colo., Nov. 30.—Two fires occured at this place this morning. The first was the burning of the residence of J. A. McDonald, at 308 East Third street, and the other the home of John Daily at 101 East Seventh street.

The first fire was started by a lighted candle in one of the rooms of the house occupied by a miner. The damage done amounts to $900, with $200 insurance.

John Daily's house was damaged to the extent of $900, with $450 insurance. In the last instance, on investigation, it was found that the fire had been started by coal oil. The police are making an effort to locate the incendiaries, who for the past two months have been the cause of a series of fires, some of which have done a great deal of damage.

Kansas City Theater Sold.

Kansas City, Nov. 30.—The Auditorium theater, formerly known as the Warder Grand, and built in the Kansas boom days, at a cost of $350,000, was sold at 2 o'clock this afternoon under foreclosure of mortgage to the National Bank of Commerce for $75,000. W. A. Wilson, one of the directors of the bank, said that no negotiations were pending with David Henderson of Chicago for the purchase of the house.

Several persons had wanted to lease the property, but the bank had not considered any of these, as it did not wish to encumber itself with a lease, but wanted to sell the property outright.

The Howgate Case.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Early next week Judge McComas of Criminal Court No. 1 will deliver his decision on the demurrer filed by counsel for Capt. Howgate to the old indictment against him for embezzlement. It is the belief among lawyers that Judge McComas will sustain the demurrer and throw out the indictment. It is said a new indictment has already been found and in these events Howgate will be immediately re-arrested.

President King Retires.

New York, Nov. 30.—John King retired to-day from the presidency of the New York, Lake Erie and Western, after a service in that capacity of 10 years. E. B. Thomas, first vice president of the company, was selected by the directors to succeed Mr. King, who resigned on account of ill health.

A Re-count Asked For.

Kansas City, Nov. 30.—W. T. Jamison, Republican candidate for prosecuting attorney at the recent election, has asked the Supreme Court for the writ of mandamus to compel a re-canvas of the returns, which Circuit Judge Henry refused Wednesday morning. R. H. Field, one of his attorneys, went to Jefferson City last night and early this morning the Supreme Court issued an alternative writ returnable December 18.

Cook's Men Sentenced.

Fort Smith, Ark., Nov. 30.—Thurman Balding, alias "Skeeter," Jesse Snider and Will Farris, all members of the Cook gang, were this morning sentenced in the United States court. "Skeeter" received 30 years and Snider and Farris 20 years each. The house of correction at Detroit, Mich., was designated as the place where they must serve their long sentences.

NO EFFECT.

Cleveland's Treasury Policy Fails to Preserve Gold.

DOES NO ONE ANY GOOD.

The Various Stock Fluctuations Accounted For—More Men Out of Work—Weak Markets for Western Products.

New York, Nov. 30.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade to-morrow will say: The complete success of the Government loan and the replenishment of the gold reserve have not perceptibly affected business nor prevented an advance of foreign exchange near to the exporting point.

As January interest has soon to be met and the operations of the syndicate are thought likely to prevent much selling of the bonds to foreigners, some exports of gold are not improbable. Meanwhile domestic trade and industry have not been little influenced by the heavy defaleation in one bank and minor disorders in two others, nor by the failure of the Erie railway to meet interest on its bonds. The closing of sugar refineries will diminish the industrial force more than it is increased by the resumption of the Bethlehem steel works, and a few other concerns. The controlling fact is that, although in two instances wages have increased, the earnings of the working force and its purchasing power are not on the whole enlarging at present, and prices of the chief farm products do not materially improve.

Wheat is ¼ cent higher than a week ago, and Western receipts still exceed last year's, amounting since July 1 to 103,500,000 bushels against 100,900,000 last year, while exports from all ports have been about 21,000,000 bushels smaller.

Corn has advanced a fraction, receipts being larger than a year ago, and on the whole the outcome for the farmers has not so improved as to promise larger buying by the West and South.

The stock market disappoints those who reckoned on improvment after the sale of bonds. The average for railroad stocks has declined 32 cents per shares and for trust stocks $1.93 per share, in part because the Shoe and Leather robbery and other bank irregularities caused some unreasoning influences, but more because the earnings continue uninspiring. Those reported for November thus far are 1.1 per cent less than last year, and 1.5 per cent less than in 1892.

The tumble in Sugar stock may be aimed at Congressional action, but the enormous importations last summer in anticipation of duties have not been sustained by the expected consumption. The curtailment of coal production also lessens working force or hours, and many of the flour mills at the West have stopped on account of the condition of the market.

The great industries fairly maintain the production previously reported, but cannot be expected to increase at this season. A few more iron works have gone into operation, and the demand is reported larger, but there is distinct weakness in price, especially at Pittsburg and Bessemer iron, billets, nails and some structural forms are quoted lower. The rail combination has agreed to a reduction of $2 per ton for the next year. Coke contracts are being made for the first quarter of 1895 at current rates.

The shoe industry continues to do remarkably well for the season, and the prospect for the spring business is fairly good, although trouble about prices occasions some friction. In textile manufactures there is more strength in print cloths, but other cottons are somewhat irregular and weaker, and the woolen manufacture still receives some orders for winter goods, but the demand for spring is much retarded by unavoidable delay in filling orders.

Money commands better rates since the sale of bonds, but there is scarcely any improvement in commercial or industrial demands, and the flow of currency hitherward is as large as it has been at any time since September. Importers make moderate demands, and the call from merchants is only for immediate needs. November payments through clearing houses are 3.2 per cent larger than last year, and 23.9 per cent less than in 1892. Treasury receipts are small, customs 20 per cent, and internal revenue nearly 40 per cent less than last year, and the deficit for the month appears to be about $9,000,000.

The liabilities in failures for the third week of November were $2,358,561, against $2,285,676 for the same week last year. The decrease was all in manufacturing, of which liabilities were $915,326, against $1,589,027 last year, while in trading concerns, liabilities were $1,395,640, against $1,384,649 last year. For three weeks of November liabilities have been $8,088,420, against $17,037,145 last year.

Failures this week have been in the United States 289, against 271 last year, and in Canada 36, against 48 last year.

KOLB'S PLAN.

It Does Not Involve Riot and Bloodshed in Alabama.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Information of the exact programme to be pursued to-morrow by Reuben F. Kolb, the Populist claimant to the Governorship of Alabama, was made known here to-day. Thus far Kolb has disclosed only that he and his Populist followers, estimated at about 50,000, would go to Montgomery, take the capitol and there demand that Kolb be sworn in as Governor instead of Oates. There have been grave fears of riot and bloodshed as a consequence of the clash of the rival parties, and the militia of the State is now at the State capital. The national headquarters of the Populist party at Washington has been closed since the election, and Chairman Taubeneck has been in St. Louis the past few days attending the sessions of the Bimetallic League which has been meeting there. Some of his associates in the party are still here, however, and make their headquarters in the office of the National Watchman, the organ of the Populist party, and they are fully informed of the doings of Kolb and his followers.

Mr. N. A. Dunning, the editor of the Watchman, was asked to-day what, from his information, would be the exact steps taken by Kolb to-morrow. He replied "Mr. Kolb and the other members of the State Populist ticket will go before a judge or justice of the peace in Montgomery to-morrow morning and take the oath of office to the places to which they were elected. Having done this, they will go formally before the State Legislature which is now in session in Montgomery, and lodge a formal protest against the inauguration of Oates and ask that an investigation be authorized by that body. It is necessary to make the protest in this way, because there is no contest law in the State, a condition which does not exist in any other State in the Union. Our people in Alabama will make vigorous protests in a regular way and rely on our people in the legislature to take up the question and force an investigation. We have 41 members in that body and the Democrats have 59. If we could get 20 Democrats to help it would insure the investigation and put Mr. Kolb in the gubernatorial chair. We will abide by the investigation decision, no matter what it may be, just as soon as we have an opportunity to bring persons and papers and show to the country the evidence of fraud which we assert was practiced in the last election.

"Will there be any trouble in Montgomery as a result of the events there to-morrow?"

"There may be some trouble, but it will not be of our seeking. The entire State militia has been invited to the city, and there will be a great number of strangers in the city and more or less drinking, and this may result in a collision between the people. It looks to us as if the other side were seeking trouble. All talk of treason on the part of the Populists as a result of the attempts of Mr. Kolb and his associates to be sworn in, is without any foundation."

Throughout the campaign Kolb was in constant telegraph communication with the Populist national headquarters in this city, and since that time his opponents have sent many telegrams claiming that gross frauds were perpetrated in the late election, and that Kolb was honestly elected and is entitled to his seat.

THE INCOME TAX.

An Effort to be Made to Repeal the Law.

Washington, Nov. 30.—One of the current suggestions is that a movement will be made in Congress, possibly by Senator Hill of New York, to repeal the income tax feautres of the new tariff law. Whether such a movement is under contemplation cannot be stated authoritatively; but there is no question that there will be an effort to defeat the income tax law. This, however, may be accomplished in a much easier way, in a parliamentary sense, than by the repeal of the law. Negative action as to a contested subject of legislation is always simpler and more easily obtainable than affirmative action, and it is equally effective. The Secretary of the Treasury has already clearly pointed out the way in which the income tax law may be rendered inoperative. It can be nullied in exactly the same manner in which he has already nullified a provision of that same act as to free alcohol in the arts.

The Secretary of the Treasury has refused to give effect to the provision as to free alcohol in the arts for two assigned reasons: First, because it has not been found practicable to frame regulations which will prevent fraud. Second, because no appropriation has been made adequate to collect this tax.

The reason that there is not money enough appropriated to enforce the free alcohol provision is a physical one, and would justify the Secretary of the Treasury under precedents which have already been established by his predecessors, to not attempt to execute the law until he had called attention at least to the failure of the appropriation.

That is said to be exactly what he intends to do in the matter of the income tax provision. The only appropriation which has been made for the collection of the income tax was some $9,000. This was obtained upon the claim that it was necessary for the printing of blanks and to make the preliminary preparations for the collection of the tax. The economic reasons which control the politicians who manage the appropriation bills, not to make large appropriations prior to Congressional election, operated to prevent the appropriation of a very much larger sum, which Congress was informed at the time by the Secretary of the Treasury would be necessary to make the income tax law operative.

This $9,000 is said to have already been expended. Of the total amount some thing less than $5,000 has been paid to a so-called commissioner of the income tax—an officer not known to the income tax law or to any other law. But Secretary Carlisle, in the exercise of his discretion, has deemed it right to use so much of that fund to pay the salary of an officer, who has devoted himself to studying the law, framing blanks and making the preliminary arrangements for giving effect to the law, if an appropriation adequate to enforce it shall ultimately be obtained. The Secretary of the Treasury in his report to Congress will insist that the law cannot be put into operation without an additional appropriation of $500,000 for the assessment and collection of the tax.

And it is exactly as to this recommendation that a successful movement may possibly be inaugurated to defeat the tax. In other words, the opponents of the income tax law will resist this appropriation. Some of the Senators who have already arrived here, Senator Lodge among the number, have said that this appropriation will not be made; and that it may be just as well for Congress to start at the beginning, and defeat the income tax that way, as to attempt a direct repeal of the income tax provision. This method of starving the law to death has been practiced before now as to internal revenue measures. There was one law which was enacted in the midst of the war which was then declared by the Secretary of the Treasury to be inoperative, because there was no appropriation to enforce it. A report to that effect was made to Congress, and the reasons assigned by the Secretary of the Treasury were deemed good. Meanwhile, the exigency which created the law passed, and the law was actually starved to death by the refusal of an appropriation to enforce it. There are many who think that the income tax may be defeated in this manner. At all events, the attempt will be made to so defeat it.

If you want a present for the baby, or something for the school-girl you can get it at Weber hall, Wednesday or Thursday, December 5 and 6. A supper for fifty cents served each evening.

ISABELLA, 1500 OZS.

Produced During the Month From the Isabella.

A 50-ROUND PRIZE FIGHT

It Lasted Nearly Four Hours—The Victor Company Paid $20,000 in November—The Copper Mountain Strike—Sanborn Lease.

Special to The Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Nov. 30.—During the month of November the Isabella company produced from the Buena Vista over 500 tons of smelting ore that gave returns of from four to five ounces of gold to the ton. In addition to these smelting ores the low grade stuff handled at the local mills returned another hundred ounces of gold, making in all about 1,500 ounces of the yellow stuff produced from this mine during the month. The company have kept 75 men constantly employed during this time, and have received royalties from some of their lessees who are working on one or the other of the 20 odd claims.

The Victor company during the month of November paid two dividends, the amount of which was $20,000.

A well known mining man and one who has a good knowledge of silver and lead ores, has just returned from Spring Creek, and says that the Copper Mountain company have undoubtedly a very fine property. [illegible] claim that they have two feet of very good ore opened up, and that they obtained it by following a small lead that runs some in silver and gold.

The Elkton, another Spring Creek claim, worked by Messrs. Crook and Martin, on Copper mountain has the shaft down 26 feet, and they are sinking deeper on a good strong vein. They have at present about eight inches of low-grade lead ore and this vein is said to be improving in size and value as depth is added. The workers claim to have assays on the ore showing both gold and silver.

A large number of prospectors are in the Spring Creek district, and the whole country is now being covered with shafts and tunnels.

Mr. Airhart some days since disposed of his interest in the Bertha B. lode, the reason given for this being that it was impossible to make the property pay. It was learned to-night, however, that the parties who are now working the property have opened up a streak of very good-looking ore of a quartz character, they feel very much encouraged, and will go right ahead with the work.

It was reported a few days since that the Nelly Sanborn lode had been leased to Billy Truax. This news, it now appears, was a little premature, as though the property has been leased, other parties outside of Billy Truax are the favored ones. The property belongs to Messrs. Chas. Reuter, W. Nash and C. T. Wall. Mr. Reuter was up here this week looking after the matter, and as soon as everything is signed, sealed and settled the lessees will go ahead with the good work.

A mining expert, who has been on Mineral hill to examine the Nelly Sanborn, says that there is no doubt that the New Discovery vein runs across the property.

W. G. L. Parker, while crossing from Spring Creek to Cripple Creek in a wagon, had the misfortune to catch his foot in the wheel of the wagon, and in this manner managed to break his ankle. He has been brought to town for surgical treatment. The injury is quite serious, and will lay him out for some time.

A prize fight took place at the Top Notch Theater last night, which beats the record for fistic encounters in Cripple Creek. The contentants were "Red" Ross and "Curley" McHale. The fight lasted for 50 rounds, and was then declared a draw. The 50 rounds took three hours and 55 minutes to get through, and the fight was not over until 4 a. m. In the last three or four rounds both men were very weak, and had to be carried to the middle of the ring. It was a very evenly matched affair, and pluckily fought and both ended up with badly battered up faces. The purse was for $200.

SHOOTING AT NEDERLAND.

An Innocent Man Shot During a Quarrel Between Others.

Boulder, Colo., Nov. 30.—Yesterday afternoon, Nederland, a mining camp 18 miles from this city, was in a most decided state of excitement, caused by the shooting of Frank Wagner, a well known citizen of that place, by Hugh McDougall.

McDougall, Wagner, a man named Hamley and Fitz Miller celebrated Thanksgiving day by becoming gloriously drunk. Late in the afternoon they left the saloon and retired to the apartments of Hamly, a two-roomed dwelling situated between the postoffice and the National Mercantile store. This is rented to Hamly by John Pickel of this place.

The men had a quantity of liquor and were engaged in a dispute about a threat reported to the effect that Hamly was going to take McDougall's life.

The men become very boisterous toward evening, and during the heat of excitement, McDougall went to his bedroom in the rear of the house and procuring a 45-caliber Winchester rifle, slipped forth and pointed it at Hamly and said: "Now, I want to know whether there is any truth in the statement that has been rumored about the town that you are going to kill me."

Fritz Miller sprang up and seized the rifle, pushing it aside, and at the same instant it was discharged and the bullet entered the body of Frank Wagner. It passed through the breat and came out about one inch from his spinal column.

Wagner was McDougall's best friend. McDougall was taken in charge by the city marshal, who immediately sent word to the sheriff at Boulder. He returned this morning about 4 o'clock with McDougall and placed him in jail. Miller and Hamly have also been placed under arrest and will be witnesses in the trial which will come off to-morrow. Wagner died 12 hours after he was shot. McDougall is an unmarried man about 50 years old, and has been engaged at different things about town. Wagner has been at Nederland for a number of years and was engaged in mining and teaming, having run a freight wagon between Boulder and Carbon. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn his death. Coroner Trezise left this morning for Nederland to take charge of the body.

Burned the Brooms

Denver, Nov. 30.—The C. S. Morey Mercantile Company suffered a $2,500 loss by fire this morning at 10:30 o'clock in their broom factory at 2338 Blake street. The fire originated in the warehouse in the rear of the one-story brick in which was stored $4,000 worth of broom corn, and is supposed have been the work of incendiaries, who took this means of getting even for a grievance they had.

The rear door, which is always locked, was pried open and it was here that the fire started. The opening was not over three inches wide. The flames spread rapidly over the stock and the son of Superintendent Selzer saw it from the front room, which is used as a workshop.

An alarm was given and the 10 men employed there made a break for the street. Superintendent W. H. Selzer did not have time enough to get his coat as he went out so rapid was the progress of the flames. The department made a quick run and when they got there the whole interior seemed to be ablaze. They fought the stubborn fire and finally got it under control.

Mr. Seltzer, the superintendent, is positive that the place was set on fire, but is at a loss as to who is responsible for the deed. He says that the building cost about $1,500, stock $4,000, and machinery $2,000. He estimates the loss between $2,500 and $3,000. The insurance is $1,000 in the Liverpool, London and Globe with Brannan & Kellogg and the balance with Cobb, Wilson & Co.

SHOT AT A DANCE.

Frank Emmons Shot by Billy Yost at Divide.

Thanksgiving night there was a dance at Hardy's Hotel at Divide, and along about midnight a party of the male guests repaired to the bar-room to lubricate their joints with the dancing oil, or whatever it is they sell there. In fact, a lot of the guests were drunk, and they got into a row. A fellow named Billy Yost was particularly obstreperous. Among the guests was Justice Rust, and Yost gave the old gentleman some trouble and finally struck at him. Just then Frank Emmons stepped up and shoved Yost back off his feet. As he recovered himself he put his hand to his hip and pulled out a 45-caliber revolver and began firing. One shot caught Emmons in the side, and not far from the region of the heart, and the ball has probably hurt the kidneys. The physicians say there is a small chance for his life.

Another one of the shots struck Sam Foster of Woodland Park, in a finger of the left hand, and another struck Justice Rust in the stomach. Fortunately for the Justice, the ball only cut through the clothing and did not even break the skin. The crowd in the saloon then disarmed Yost, but permitted him to go free. He escaped into the hills and cannot be found now. Sheriff Bowers received information of the shooting yesterday, and went up to examine the facts. Yost has relatives near Woodland Park, and has lived around there for some time.

Carved with a Razor.

About 3 o'clock yesterday morning Walter Davis, a colored man, who is employed at the Printer's Home, and Jesus Taffoya, a Mexican, got into a row and Davis cut the Mexican in the back with some sharp instrument, probably a razor. The two men and another negro were playing cards and drinking at a cabin on the grounds of the Atkinson brick yard at the time. Taffoya was cut in the right side of the back, the wound being almost circular and quite deep. Dr. Estill dressed the wound, and the man was taken to the Sisters' hospital yesterday. Unless some complication occurs he is likely to come through all right. Davis escaped after doing the cutting, and for a time could not be found. Mr. Dana and Officer Martin got onto the fact, however, that he was in hiding at the cabin of a friend in the Sinton addition, and went over there and took him. He was all ready to skip out as soon as it got dark. The Mexican is an employe of the Colorado Springs Packing Company.

STAR GAZERS INVITED.

The Astronomer of Colorado College Would Like to See You.

The following invitation to the public formed the opening sentences of the last lecture in Professor Loud's recent University Extension course in Astronomy, delivered at the college observatory, November 24:

"In closing the series of lectures which you have honored with your attendance, I cannot but thank my auditors for the patience and indulgence shown in sparing a half dozen evenings to listen to talks the attractiveness of which has depended solely on the loftiness of the theme, quite unsupported by rhetorical art. I trust that the interest which you have manifested in astronomy may continue, and be proved in the future by frequent visits to the observatory. The building and telescope were given to the college if my notion of the donor's purpose is correct—to be made useful to as many people and in as many ways as possible, and I assure you that I understand in the same sense that guardianship of the property which has been committed to me. Hence I trust that you yourselves, and as many of your friends as share your appreciation of celestial scenery, will, when anything is in sight which you wish to see, be prompt to avail yourselves of whatever facilities I am able to extend. It is intended that one evening a week—for the present Thursday evening—shall be announced in the city papers as especially reserved for visitors; but this will be merely as a matter of mutual convenience, and because the public will be likely to be better served by regular appointments than in a hap-hazard way. Such a standing arrangement must by no means be regarded as a bar to the making of special appointments on other evenings whenever your convenience dictates; and I can promise you that when on the one hand some conflicting necessity interferes, I will frankly inform you of it; but that whenever able to comply with an invitation to show the telescope and the stars to an appreciative spectator, I shall take a genuine and singere pleasure in doing so."

IN MEXICO.

VILLAGE LIFE IN THE SOUTHERN REPUBLIC.

All the Comforts of a Home are Somewhat Limited—A Sunday Bull Fight a Brutal Performance Relieved By Feats of Agility and Skill

One is not likely to forget the first Mexican village he sees. An accident caused our train to stop for an hour or two very near an adobe village many miles from the line; not at a station or near one. Some of the poor creatures living in their hovels had probably never before been so near to a white person. A few of the women and children were shy—timid and seemed afraid of us; but the majority were curious and wished to examine everything about us, which was not altogether pleasing to ourselves, as their blankets or serapes are worn year after year without a cleansing; and as you hear of the multitudes which inhabit the serape, together with the owner, there is a certain feeling of touch me not, and "distance lends enchantment."

It is necessary to keep a close guard over everything you wish to retain in your own possession, valuable or not. There is a certain class who have a very "taking way" with them and one must be on his guard.

The low, adobe houses were laid out in the streets. We walked the length of one street and where it was possible took a peep into each house. What kind of furniture? I hear you ask. Oh yes, we saw the household furniture! In one house, an immense broken kettle. In another a lot of rags in one corner, and in a third, a dilapidated dog. Oh, how these poor creatures live, little better than the herds of burros we see all over the country.

This reminds me of the bull fight we saw in Mexico. Our party secured a box for the Sunday afternoon. The Sabbath is the general holiday, all places of amusement are open and the national games are played on this day.

The amphitheater was well filled; we were seated and waiting, the "picadores," on poor miserable looking horses, "capeadores" with their scarlet and light-colored mantles, and "matadores" in their fancy costumes had taken their respective places in the ring, when the trumpet sounded from the judges' stand; the gate was thrown open, and the first bull entered the arena. A tame animal for a fighting bull! It was not till the capeadores flaunted their scarlet mantles in his face that he showed fight. After he learned his lesson and knew what was expected of him, he kept them quite lively for a short time, until the matador put an end to his life and the body dragged off by the scrawny horses.

After waiting a few minutes, another bull was brought into the ring, a good natured animal which evidently enjoyed walking round and looking to examine the curios about him. The capeadores waves their red mantles in vain—they could fight; he would not. Soon after we heard hisses coming from every direction, upon making inquiries learned that one feat to be performed with this animal was the planting of a pole directly in front of him and as he rushes madly forward the man raises himself on the pole as the bull passes under him. Suppose the animal does not continue on his course but stops short—the man lands on the bull's horns and is killed. This terrible accident happened but a short time before, and from the continued hissing it was evident that the people feared a similar accident and refused to allow the act to be performed with this bull. He must be taken out and another one brought in to take his place.

More easily said than done. A leader was brought in—that is an ox—which was expected to enter, lead the bull out and quietly retire. Not so. Mr. Ox was ready to fight in place of his timid friend. Cheer after cheer greeted his offers of attack, and it took a quarter of an hour and a dozen men to teach him his lesson of walking out of the ring and persuading his friend to follow. This was the most amusing part of the performance.

Again the trumpet sounded. This time a wild and vicious fellow entered. He could be depended upon; the people were satisfied. After some minor performances the feat of jumping over the bull with the pole was enacted in admirable style, the man seeming to leap over the bull; landing head up and bowing right and left to the crowd which cheered vociferously.

The most clever feat followed. A banderillero having attracted the attention of the bull, quietly seated himself in a chair, the infuriated animal rushed toward him, but the banderillero remained seated till the bull was so near him that he was able to place a banderillera (darts about two feet long decked with bright colored papers or ribbons) on each side of his neck and adroitly stepped one side unharmed as the bull continued onward, now thoroughly mad and the chair was seen to rise in the air and descend in small bits.

The most exciting and expert feat on the programme followed. The matador, with a scarlet mantle thrown over the sword, gained the attention of the bull, breathlessly I watched the contest between that tremendously powerful, infuriated animal and that man of iron nerve, as they faced each other death to one. It seemed as though the bull must be victorious. It was an awful sight to see. Once, twice, the bull made the attack. To us who watched it seemed as though the man would be gored to death, but quick as a flash he avoided the attack while yet encouraging the animal to battle. The third time the matador had the advantage which he had been watching and waiting for, and with one thrust of the sword the bull fell to the earth dead. This is seldom accomplished at the one stroke. The sword was aimed with such precision and strength that the heart was pierced and this powerful man was able to withdraw the sword as the animal fell. A shower of coin was thrown to the matador as he passed in front of the judges' stand in the arena, receiving the applause of the people.

Many persons may criticize us for attending a bull fight. Everyone in our party went by reason of its being the most notable national amusement of the country and only as such desired to see it. Travel where we may there are always many sad sights to be met with if one sees the country and people in their every day surroundings. CHIPS.

The Chinese Son of Heaven.

In Peking is the residence of a monarch who is still the son of heaven to 350,000,000 human beings, whom a bare score of living foreigners have even seen, and who at the end of the nineteenth century leads an existence befitting the veiled prophet of Khorassan. He is vicegerent of heaven, himself all but a god, and lives a prisoner's life. To the innermost palace no man is admitted, and the imperial person and harem are surrounded by a vast body of eunuchs estimated at from 8,000 to 10,000. When the emperor goes out, nobody is allowed in the streets, which are very likely paved for the occasion, while the houses are barricaded or closed with mats.

The ceremonial functions of his life are manifold and engrossing, and his education in the native classics is not neglected. Kuang Hsu, the present emperor, takes a deep interest in everything English and receives daily lessons in our language from two Chinese students, who, unlike the ministers, are allowed to sit in his presence, but with the sad routine of his official life, rigidly prescribed by immemorial etiquette, and the temptations of the harem, it is unlikely that an emperor of China can develop force of character or learn lessons of statecraft. Should a strong sovereign emancipate himself from the petrified traditions of the palace the phantom of imperial power would, it is said, collapse.

THE LISTENER.

Colonel Breckinridge has placed himself in the hands of a manager and will take the lecture stage.

The conversion of Archie Thayer, described as "Bath's most noted gambler," is announced by a Maine clergyman.

Signor Crispi may be a trifle disappointed in Italian politics, but he is basking in the sunshine of matrimony, having been recently married for the fourth time.

At a recent wedding in Mokane, Mo., the groom's name was Abraham Lincoln Strickland, and that of the officiating clergyman was Jefferson Davis Greer.

No assassin will leap on President Peixoto's new carriage for he had it built so that his seat is about seven feet above the ground. It comes high, but he feels satisfied.

Judge Holcomb, the fusionist governor elect of Nebraska, stands 6 feet 3 in height, weighs 250 pounds and has a face which is an affidavit of earnestness and honesty.

Christian Conrad who boasts that he heard President Washington make an open air speech in 1797, is living on a farm near Manchester, Ia., at the reputed age of 100 years.

Senator Frye of Maine is a particularly effective campaign speaker. His is a dry humor, lit up by quick dramatic flashes. His appearance recalls the picture of the senators of two generations ago.

After struggling along for 16 years Henry Bigelow Williams of Boston has paid off his creditors dollar for dollar. He failed in 1878 for $200,000 and then promised to liquidate in full if he lived to do it.

Adolph Sutro, mayor elect of San Francisco, who gained fame and wealth by the Comstock tunnel that bears his name, is the owner of one tenth of the entire area of San Francisco county. He is a native of Rhenish Prussia and is 63 years old.

M. L. Trecul, the learned botanist and member of the French Academy of Sciences, was nearly burned to death in bed the other night. He was, as usual, reading when the curtains caught fire. In trying to extinguish the flames he was badly burned.

Baron de Courcel, the French embassador to Great Britain, was president of the court of arbitration in the Bering sea dispute between America and England. Formerly he represented France at Berlin. His father was a family solicitor to Talleyrand.

Lewis Y. Graff, one of the oldest members of the Commercial Exchange of Philadelphia, sent his congratulations to Mayor Elect Strong of New York city on hearing the result. Mayor Strong when a poor boy, was clerk in a country store in Ohio under Mr. Graff.

Lord Beeforth, the present mayor of Scarborough, England, and one of the wealthiest men in that country, was born in one of the poorest districts in London. He owes much of his money to his association with Gustave Dore, with whom he founded the Dore gallery.

Dr. Talmage is said to receive $700 for a lecture and sometimes $1,000. He means more money out of his lectures than any other man on the platform. Colonel Ingersoll's price is $500, while Dr. McGlynn, Joseph Cook and others of the same rank of lecturers command from $150 to $350.

General Cassius M. Clay's roomy old mansion, Whitehall, is full of handsome antique furniture that would delight a collector. The old Kentuckian has always displayed a fine hospitality at Whitehall. It is one of the show places of the blue grass region, and visitors are charitably entertained there.

THE COMING WOMAN

Twenty per cent of the women registered in Chicago failed to vote. They evidently took a woman's privilege of changing her mind. Toledo Blade.

It is not at all likely that we are to have female voters. The number of women who really want to vote is about equal to the number of men who like to put the baby to sleep. Texas Siftings.

"John, have you made the fire?" "Yes, dear." "And milked the cow?" "Yes, dear." "And dressed the children?" "Yes, dear." "Well, you can put the coffee on and then shave yourself for church." Atlanta Constitution.

Women cast 55 per cent of the total vote in Colorado, and they are going to organize a woman's party. They will probably distribute fashion books in place of the present dreary, brain puddling campaign literature that is sent out. New York World.

George Women are still pushing their way into all the industries. "Jack, that's so. I have just been discharged to make way for a woman." "You have? Well, well! What are you going to do now?" "I am trying to marry the woman." New York Weekly.

Eczema of Worst Type. School and Society Abandoned. Felt Death Would be Relief. Cuticura Soon Put An End to all Sufferings.

Ever since I was three years old I have been troubled with Eczema of the worst type. It at times completely covered my head and neck. I have tried all sorts of medicines, and have been doctored by many eminent physicians, but with no favorable result. Sometimes my head was one mass of thick scab that would run and bleed, and in manner would be so much worse, my ears looked as though they would fall off. I could not go to school or mingle with society, as the disease smelt so bad. I felt at times that death would be a relief, suffering and itching until I hardly knew what to do. I got your CUTICURA REMEDIES the 24th of January last, and used them according to directions, and can now say that they soon put an end to all my suffering. Words can never tell my thanks to you and your valuable medicine and I shall always recommend them to whoever I see suffering from the terrible disease. I had spent money and tried the best of doctors with but little relief.

A PHYSIOLOGIST'S WIFE

His lecture over, Professor Amslie Grey paid a visit to his laboratory, where he adjusted several scientific instruments, made a note or two to the progress of three separate infusions of bacteria, cut half a dozen sections with a microtome and finally resolved the difficulties of seven different gentlemen who were pursuing researches in as many separate lines of inquiry. Having thus conscientiously and methodically completed the routine of his duties, he returned to his carriage and ordered the coachman to drive him to the Lindens. His face as he drove was cold and impassive, but he drew his fingers from time to time down his prominent chin with a jerky, twitchy movement.

The Lindens was an old fashioned, ivy clad house which had once been in the country, but was now caught in the long red brick feelers of the growing city. It still stood back from the road in the privacy of its own grounds. A winding path, lined with laurel bushes, led to the arched and porticoed entrance. To the right was a lawn. Under the shadow of a hawthorn a lady sat in a garden chair, with a book in her hands. At the click of the gate she started, and the professor, catching sight of her, strode across the lawn in her direction.

"What! Won't you go in and see Mrs. Esdaile?" she asked, sweeping out from under the shadow of the hawthorn. She was a small woman, strongly feminine, from the rich coils of her light colored hair to the dainty garden slipper which peeped from under her cream tinted dress. One tiny well gloved hand was outstretched in greeting, while the other pressed a thick, green covered volume against her side.

Her decision and quick tactful manner bespoke the mature woman of the world, but her upraised face had preserved a girlish and even infantile expression of innocence in its large, fearless gray eyes and sensitive, humorous mouth. Mrs. O'James was a widow, and she was two and thirty years of age, but neither fact could have been deduced from her appearance.

"You will surely go in and see Mrs. Esdaile?" she repeated, glancing up at him with eyes which had in them something between a challenge and a caress.

"I did not come to see Mrs. Esdaile," he answered, with no relaxation of his cold and grave manner. "I came to see you."

"I am sure I should be highly honored," she said, with just the slightest little touch of brogue in her accent. "What are the students to do without their professor?"

"I have already completed my academical duties. Take my arm, and we shall walk in the sunshine. Surely we cannot wonder that eastern people should have made a deity of the sun. It is the great beneficent force of nature. man's ally against cold, sterility and all that is abhorrent to him. What were you reading?"

"Beale's 'Matter and Life.'"

The professor raised his thick eyebrows. "Beale!" he said, and then again in a kind of whisper, "Beale!"

"You differ from him?" she asked.

"It is not I who differ from him. I am only a monad in a thing of no moment. The whole tendency of the highest plane of modern thought differs from him. He defends the indefensible. He is an excellent observer, but a feeble reasoner. I should not recommend you to found your conclusions upon Beale."

"I must read 'Nature's Chronicle' to counteract his pernicious influence," said Mrs. O'James, with a soft, cooing laugh. "Nature's Chronicle' was one of the many books in which Professor Amslie Grey had enforced the negative doctrines of scientific agnosticism.

"It is a faulty work," said he. "I cannot recommend it. I would rather refer you to the standard writings of some of my older and more eloquent colleagues."

There was a pause in their talk as they paced up and down on the green velvet like lawn.

"Have you thought at all," he asked at last, "of the matter upon which I spoke to you last night?"

She said nothing, but walked by his side, with her eyes averted and her face aslant.

"I would not hurry you unduly," he continued. "I know that it is a matter which can scarcely be decided offhand. In my own case it cost me some thought before I ventured to make the suggestion. I am not an emotional man, but I am conscious in your presence of the great evolutionary instinct which makes either sex the complement of the other."

"You believe in love, then?" she asked, with a twinkling, upward glance.

"I am forced to."

"And yet you can deny the soul?"

"How far these questions are psychic and how far material is still sub judice," said the professor, with an air of toleration. "Protoplasm may prove to be the physical basis of love as well as of life."

"How inflexible you are!" she exclaimed. "You would draw love down to the level of physics."

"Or draw physics up to the level of love."

"Come, that is much better," she cried, with her sympathetic laugh. "That is really very pretty, and puts science in quite a delightful light." Her eyes sparkled, and she tossed her chin with the pretty, willful air of a woman who is mistress of the situation.

"I have reason to believe," said the professor, "that my position here will prove to be only a stepping stone to some wider scene of scientific activity. Yet, even here, my chief brings me in some £7,000 a year, which is supplemented by a few hundreds from my books. I should therefore be in a position to provide you with those comforts to which you are accustomed. So much for my pecuniary position. As to my constitution, it has always been sound. I have never suffered from any illness in my life save fleeting attacks of cephalalgia, the result of too prolonged a stimulation of the centers of cerebration. My father and mother had no sign of any morbid diathesis, but I will not conceal from you that my grandfather was afflicted with podagra."

Mrs. O'James looked startled. "Is that very serious?" she asked.

"It is gout," said the professor.

"Oh, is that all?" It sounded much worse than that."

"It is a grave taint, but I trust that I shall not be a victim to atavism. I have laid these facts before you because they are factors which cannot be overlooked in forming your decision. May I ask now whether you see your way to accepting my proposal?" He paused in his walk and looked earnestly down at her.

A struggle was evidently going on in her mind. Her eyes were cast down, her little slipper tapped the lawn, and her fingers played nervously with her chatelaine. Suddenly, with a sharp, quick gesture, which had in it something of abandon and recklessness, she held out her hand to her companion.

"I accept," she said.

They were standing under the shadow of the hawthorn. He stooped gravely down and kissed her glove covered fingers.

"I trust that you may never have cause to regret your decision," he said.

"I trust that you never may," she cried, with a heaving breast. There were tears in her eyes, and her lips twitched with some strong emotion.

"Come into the sunshine again," said he. "It is the great restorative. Your nerves are shaken. Some little congestion of the medulla and pons. It is always instructive to reduce psychic or emotional conditions to their physical equivalents. You feel that your anchor is still firm in a bottom of ascertained fact."

He stooped gravely down and kissed her glove covered fingers

"But it is so dreadfully unromantic," said Mrs. O'James, with her old twinkle.

"Romance is the offspring of imagination and of ignorance. Where science throws her calm, clear light, there is happily no room for romance."

"But is not love romance?" she asked.

"Not at all. Love has been taken away from the poets and has been brought within the domain of true science. It may prove to be one of the great cosmic elementary forces. When the atom of hydrogen draws the atom of chlorine toward it to form the perfected molecule of hydrochloric acid, the force which it exerts may be intrinsically similar to that which draws me to you. Attraction and repulsion appear to be the primary forces. This is attraction."

"And here is repulsion," said Mrs. O'James as a stout, florid lady came sweeping across the lawn in their direction. "So glad you have come out, Mrs Esdaile! Here is Professor Grey."

"How do you do, professor?" said the lady, with some little pomposity of manner. "You were very wise to stay out here on so lovely a day. Is it not heavenly?"

"It is certainly very fine weather," the professor answered.

"Listen to the wind sighing in the trees!" cried Mrs. Esdaile, holding up one finger. "It is nature's lullaby. Could you not imagine it, Professor Grey, to be the whisperings of angels?"

"The idea had not occurred to me, madam."

"Ah, professor, I have always the same complaint against you. a want of rapport with the deeper meanings of nature. Shall I say a want of imagination? You do not feel an emotional thrill at the singing of that thrush?"

"I confess that I am not conscious of one, Mrs. Esdaile."

"Or at the delicate tint of that background of leaves? See the rich greens!"

"Chlorophyll," murmured the professor.

"Science is so hopelessly prosaic. It dissects and labels and loses sight of the great things in its attention to the little ones. You have a poor opinion of woman's intellect, Professor Grey. I think that I have heard you say so."

"It is a question of avoirdupois," said the professor, closing his eyes and shrugging his shoulders. "The female cerebrum averages two ounces less in weight than the male. No doubt there are exceptions. Nature is always elastic."

"But the heaviest thing is not always the strongest," said Mrs. O'James, laughing. "Isn't there a law of compensation in science? May we not hope to make up in quality for what we lack in quantity?"

"I think not," remarked the professor gravely. "But there is your luncheon gong. No, thank you, Mrs. Esdaile; I cannot stay. My carriage is waiting. Goodby! Goodby, Mrs O'James!" He raised his hat and stalked slowly away among the laurel bushes.

"He has no taste," said Mrs. Esdaile, "no eye for beauty."

"On the contrary," Mrs. O'James answered, with a saucy little jerk of the chin, "he has just asked me to be his wife."

A FREE BALLOT AND A FAIR COUNT.

There are not startling indications that the old battle cry of the Republican party, a free ballot and a fair count, may be made prominent once more in the campaign of 1896. The people of the southern States are beginning to be disgusted with the election methods that have prevailed there for a generation. The old spectre of "Negro Domination" is laid. There are no longer any federal laws on the statute books that interfere with the free conduct of elections by the people of the several States according to their own will. There is no coercion from the North—no invasion of the sovereignty of the States, no federal deputy marshals to interfere with the counting of the votes in any way that the election managers may see fit to use.

It is to the credit of the southern people that they should be ashamed of the methods which have been used in their States for the last twenty years. They are beginning to split now on really political issues, like the people of the North. There is no longer any good reason why they should always remain solid, no matter what their belief on the policy of the government.

As an illustration of what the methods are that have been employed to keep the South solid, we take the liberty of quoting from a letter just received from an old friend, the Governor-elect of Tennessee. Mr. Evans says: "You of course know that I have to contend with machine office-holding Democracy. Ever since the election we have been watching them to keep them from stealing the victory. They now have State agents all through east Tennessee to see if they can find a technicality on which to base a contest. It has been their custom, as you know, in the past to gain their victory largely by swelling or padding the returns, and in four or five counties they count all the votes cast for the Democratic candidates. In some of these counties we kept our people from voting for the very reason that the more ballots went in, the greater would be the Democratic majority. There is no question about the result, and that the face of the returns shows that I am elected."

Remember that these words are written of an election that took place in this very month of November, 1894. This is no ancient history—no "waving of the bloody shirt." It is simple fact, and a fact of the present.

In North Carolina the Republicans and the Populists made a combination simply for the purpose of securing a fair count. Neither party compromised its principles, they did not fuse, in the ordinary sense of the words; they only combined to make sure that the ballots would be counted as cast; and as a result the Democracy was badly beaten.

We mention these things to show that the people of the South are at last waking up to the necessity of conducting their elections fairly. We have already mentioned the remarkable case of the tenth district of Georgia, where the successful candidate, who is a man of exceptional conscience, acknowledges that he was elected by the most unblushing frauds, and has offered to resign his seat and hold a new election next March.

By the repeal of the federal election laws, the South has been in a manner put upon its honor in the matter of elections. Before that, they could and did allege federal interference; and there was a feeling that anything was fair which circumvented the deputy marshals. Now, there is no such excuse; and as for the fear of Negro domination," that was galvanized into a spasmodic semblance of life for the last time, we believe, in 1892.

There is hope, then, for the Republican party in the South on this old issue. Few of the old machine Democrats will have the conscience or the good sense to do as Mr. Black has done in the tenth district of Georgia. They will stick to the old methods. If they do, the aroused public conscience of the South may be found more effectual than we had reason heretofore to suppose that it ever would be.

THE TRANSMISSISSIPPI CONGRESS AND THE BIMETALLIC LEAGUE.

It is rather an unfortunate thing for western interests that the Transmissippi congress and the Bimetallic league should have met at the same time and place. We fear that people generally will not distinguish between the two, and that both may be regarded in the East as really one gathering.

Just before the meeting of the congress, we took occasion to express an apprehension that its sessions would be turned into a Populist annex. They were not so turned, but the session of the Bimetallic league was

That the congress was a success, and did its work so well, is due to the fact that it contained many men of sense and principle such men as Congressman-elect Shafroth of our own State, the Cannons of Utah, and ex-Governor Prince of New Mexico. Under the leadership of such men, the congress delivered itself wisely on a large number of topics which are of vital concern to the West, and refrained from making a fool of itself generally. But the Bimetallic League did just the other thing. Under the leadership of A. J. Warner, H. E. Taubeneck, Archie Fisk and Governor Waite, it provided for the calling of another convention for the purpose of forming a new silver party—that is, that will be the ostensible object of the convention, while the real object will be to try to revitalize the moribund Populist party and gain some new recruits for it. As to this movement, Governor Prince voiced the sentiment of the sensible men in the Transmissippi congress when he said, "I don't believe it is necessary to organize a new party. Anyhow, a new party cannot be organized in a conference in a hotel parlor." So far as Colorado is concerned, the fact that Waite is made one of the leaders of this proposed new organization is enough to damn it. Colorado Republicans and we believe Colorado Democrats and a good many Colorado Populists, will have nothing to do with any movement in which Waite is made one of the prominent figures.

But to come back to the Transmissippi congress. That body showed its good sense, we believe, in discussing a large variety of subjects, and not confining itself to silver alone. The States on this side of the great river have many and diversified interests, and a congress which professes to represent those interests should pay some attention to them. Among the topics which were considered were the proper disposition of the arid lands, the construction of the Nicaragua canal, the encouragement of trade relations with the Central and South American republics, the construction of the Henrepin canal and the proper care of the deep water harbors on the Gulf and Pacific coasts.

These were all proper subjects for the consideration of the congress and it ought to have a good effect to show to the rest of the country that the people of the West take an enlightened interest in all these matters and demand consideration for them at the hands of Congress. These are matters that are not sectional. The whole country is interested in the proper disposition of its public lands, in the construction of the Nicaragua and Henrepin canals, in deep water harbors on our coasts, and in the development of more intimate trade relations with the Central and South American republics. In some of these, the West is interested merely as a part of this great nation. We want the Nicaragua canal made under American auspices, not primarily because it will benefit the West as a section, but because we believe that it will benefit the whole country. We want reciprocity with Central and South America for the same reason. We want silver remonetized for the same reason too; but the East has not yet discovered that fact; and the passage of these resolutions in favor of other enterprises which are clearly national and not merely local in their nature may help to convince people in the East that we mean what we say when we advocate the restoration of silver as a measure that will benefit the whole country.

On the whole, then, we are agreeably disappointed in the Transmissippi congress. It was a wiser and a more representative body than we had hoped to see gathered in St. Louis; and the result of its deliberations ought to be good for all the States in the Union.

Mr. J. Edward Addicks, whose residence has not yet been discovered, wants to be a United States Senator from Delaware. Mr. Addicks is getting a good deal of free advertising now on account of the fact that his wife has brought suit against him for divorce. Unless we mistake the character of the people of Delaware, this fact will be damaging to Mr. Addick's chances of going to the Senate. Besides that, the people of that State have a first-rate Senator already in Mr Anthony Higgins, and we have not yet heard of any good reason why they should charge him off for anybody else.

It is announced that two of the statesmen who were retired at the polls on the 6th of this month will join Governor Waite on the lecture platform—Professor Wilson, of West Virginia, and W. C. P. Breckinridge, of Kentucky. Both of them are smooth talkers, both are "tariff reformers," both of them have had a long experience in Congress, here the parallel ends. Mr. Wilson is a gentleman of untarnished private and public character.

It is announced in a semi-administration paper that Mr. Cleveland and the members of his cabinet are in perfect accord on whatever plan for reforming the currency he may recommend in his message to Congress. The information was unnecessary. Mr. Cleveland gives the orders; they do the rest.

In the late elections for members of the London school board, the clerical party lost its supremacy in the board. It still has a majority of three votes, but that is hardly enough to carry through any radical measures.

General Booth, of the Salvation army, and the American Federation of Labor are going to strike Denver about the same time. We do not suppose that this is anything more than a peculiar and fortuitous coincidence.

Congress will be in session next week. It looks as if there would be some difficulty in the present Congress appropriating enough money to collect the income-tax.

Judging from the results, the new foot-ball rules were framed in the interests of the medical profession.

The lists of dead and wounded are beginning to surpass the foot-ball scores in general interest.

After the uninterrupted sunshine of the last month, it was really time that we had some weather.

If all accounts of her are true, the Czar has got a wife who is worthy of a better husband.

Harper's Magazine IN 1895.

The Simpletons, a new novel by Thomas Hardy, will be begun in the December Number, and continued to November, 1896. Whoever may be one a favorite among English novelists, it will be conceded by all critics that Thomas Hardy stands foremost as a master artist in fiction, and The Simpletons may be expected to arouse enthusiasm not inferior in degree to that which has marked Trilby—the most successful story of the year. Another leading feature will be the Personal Recollections of Joan of Arc, by the Sieur Louis de Conte, Her Page and Secretary, under which guise the most popular of living American magazine writers will present the story of the Maid of Orleans. In the January number will appear a profusely illustrated paper on Charleston and the Carolinas, the first of a series of Southern Papers.

Northern Africa is attracting more attention than at any other time since it was the seat of empires. The next volume of HARPER'S MAGAZINE will contain four illustrated articles on this region, and three of them will depict the present life there. Julian Ralph will prepare for the Magazine a series of eight stories, depicting typical phases of Chinese Life and Manners. Besides the long stories, there will begin in the January number the first chapters of a Three Part Novelette, by Richard Harding Davis the longest work yet attempted by this writer. Complete short stories by popular writers will continue to be a feature of the Magazine.

IN A CHINESE MARKET

AWFUL FUMES AND NO ICE NOR COOL STOREROOMS.

Small Portions and No Waste—Pigskin as a Confection—Rats, Crocodiles and Monkeys as Food—Beef Not Used, but the Dog Is a Dainty.

[Special Correspondence.]

CHEFU, China, Oct. 17. I have a friend whose olfactory nerves are so sensitive that he can taste, smell and scent things afar off like a hound or a deer. He says that every race and nationality has its own distinct scent, which runs through all its houses, institutions and belongings; that the higher the race the finer and more delicate its scent, and that of all the types of mankind the Mongolian has the most pungent and repugnant emanation. I am not blessed with such wonderful super-sensitiveness, but I can bear him out in regard to Chinese markets. They are without exception the most malodorous affairs on earth, the city of Cologne, with its 46 distinct stinks, not excepted. In the cholera or plague season the market is always a center of contagion. Even the luckless rats who compete with two legged rivals for a scanty living come out and die from utter inability to stand the awful fumes and vapors of the place.

The First Principles.

The principles of a Chinese market are very simple. First, it should be located in the oldest, foulest and most densely populated district in the city. Second, it should have no drains, sewers, culverts or cesspools. All drainage should run into the thoroughfare or soak into the ground. Third, the walks and stalls should be of porous bricks or permeable earth, so as to absorb any and all liquids liable to decay. Fourth, the stall and buildings should be as old and rotten as possible. Fifth, nothing in the neighborhood should be washed, cleaned, repaired or improved.

At the end of a hundred years under these auspices a market assumes characteristics unknown to Christendom. At the end of 10 or 20 years it requires no handbill nor signboard. It can be distinctly smelled a half mile away in any and every direction. Starving curs prick up their ears when 20 squares distant and break into a run for its redolent avenues.

A Chinese market opens early and does most of its business long before breakfast time. There are no ice and no cool storerooms. In the hot climate perishable goods must be sold quickly, if they are to be eaten or if the dealer is to make any profit. The customers are out as early as the shopkeepers and often struggle and fight for their goods before they are unpacked and exposed for sale. Most of the purchases are carried away wrapped in a coarse brown paper similar to our straw paper. Many are taken off in neat little baskets of open reedwork about a foot in diameter and four inches deep. These are given away by the dealers to those who buy largely. To small purchasers they are sold for one-tenth of a cent, just about their cost.

INSIDE THE MARKET.

A European or American is struck first by the apparent smallness of the purchases made in Chinese markets. John Chinaman uses animal foods and fine vegetables as relishes and not as a food by themselves. Where the American housekeeper would buy a pound of pork, ham or bacon, the Celestial takes two or four ounces. A single tomato does duty for a quart, and a gill of oysters and clams each no larger than a bean is an abundant supply for a family of five or six. For this reason in Chinese markets things are cut up and divided into ridiculously small pieces. A half pound chicken will be split in two, the breast, head, neck, limbs, carcass and intestines separated, and each fragment marked with a price card. If the whole bird was worth 8 cents originally, the parts will be so marked as to aggregate 9 cents. Pigeons and squabs are similarly quartered. Even quail, snipe and sparrow undergo the same process of digestion.

Popular Food.

The most popular food is pork. You can buy Mr. Piggy in every imaginable condition. If you are going to give a great banquet, you can secure a 100 pounder alive. He lies on his back or side, with his four legs tied securely together. When sold, a stout bamboo pole is thrust between the legs of the right and left side and is raised with its squealing freight to the shoulders of two coolies, who walk off with it to the customer's residence. Small pigs are inserted into a long cylindrical basket, just narrow enough to force the four legs of the occupant close against its body. A thick piece of rattan serves as a handle and enables a buyer to handle the basket and pig the same as a stout valise. You can buy pigs of any size roasted whole or get them alive and have them roasted to order. The cooking is done with a slow fire containing considerable smoke and lasts from 6 to 24 hours, according to the size of the animal. It is basted some during the operation and is also flavored with a rich aromatic sauce, similar to Worcestershire, but not so pungent and burning. The roast pig is also cut up into fragments, which are sold separately and which in turn may be cut so as to allow a patron to buy a single cent's worth. Every portion of the porcine anatomy used at home is used in the Middle Kingdom, in addition to that our pigtailed cousins use the brain, which they consider a great delicacy, the lights, the ears and tail, the latter of which they fry, sweeten and call a confection. They also wash, split and scrub the large intestine until it resembles a huge thick white flannel ribbon.

You can buy boiled pork, dried pork, smoked pork, pickled pork and soused pork. You can buy pigskin, which has been treated in some mysterious Mongolian way and converted into a sweetish, grayish, white, hard, crisp and brittle sweetmeat that suggests sugared popcorn. There are sausages in which the lean and fat appear in separate pieces as large as dice. There are brawn and blood pudding, pigs' collops and trotters.

Beef Is Tabooed.

The ox is never used as food by the natives of tropical China. It is the beast of burden and all work. It plows and harrows, treads grain and moves the irrigation buckets. It is the motor of the mill. It does any and all sorts of toil. These, thinks the heathen Chinee, should safeguard it from the slaughter house. Besides this Buddhism exerts a tremendous silent power on Mongolian conduct, and under the strict teachings of that faith all flesh is interdicted, and bovine flesh especially so. The prejudice is so strong that the Chinese servants of Europeans who have spent years in service evince as much repugnance to beef after a decade of familiarity with its use as the zealous priest of a country temple.

The sheep and lamb, goat and kid deer and antelope occasionally find their way to the butcher's counter, and especially in the treaty ports, where there are European communities, and those cities which contain numbers of Chinese who have prospered abroad and returned to enjoy their success in their own land. The dog is a dainty and is eaten by only the wealthy. It is of a particular kind and must be rice fattened before it is ready for use. It is said to be very pleasant, as is also the flesh of its cousins, the fox and wolf.

Rats Are Not Popular.

Travelers' tales to the contrary notwithstanding, pussy is not utilized as a food in the far east. Her meat and, in fact, the meat of all the cat family from the tiger and cheetah down is rank and nauseating. In this regard grimalkin is an infinity below man's friend, the dog. Though tabby goes free, the great cats do not. The tiger, cheetah, leopard and panther have a high value in Chinese medicine and are always in demand. From them, and especially from the tiger, is made the "three essence liquor," which corresponds chemically and physiologically with our beef, iron and wine. The liver, heart, tongue and kidneys are believed to be specifics for various ailments, and even the flesh is esteemed from a therapeutic point of view. The rat and mouse occupy a peculiar position in the oriental cuisine. Their meat is said to be quite pleasant, resembling rabbit and squirrel. They are not popular as food, however, but merely as medicine. The Chinese world believes them to be the best if not the only hair reviver and hair tonic extant. For premature grayness, for dryness and brittleness, for dandruff and scalp eruptions the great treatment is a rat diet. In discussing this one day a Cantonese gentleman who had studied in Yale college and was extremely well informed assured me that all three of his wives had been threatened with premature baldness and only found a cure in the rodents named.

Monkey is unpopular and is used by invalids and convalescents. Young alligator is a luxury and is said to resemble frog. The tail is the part most in demand. Frogs are liked universally and are found in every market. They are smaller and thinner than those at home, but are, it may be, a trifle more delicate and savory. Though the frog and crocodile are eaten, the other two members of the reptile family the turtle and snake are not. The entire fish world is put under tribute, from the bulky shark and sawfish to the humble whelk, conch and sea anemone. Of the lower orders of life several water beetles, slugs, worms and blind worms are employed as food.

GOSSIP AND GLEANINGS.

Mrs. Langtry's Complexion—Women of Tact—Horse Show Echoes.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. Mrs. Langtry, with her marvelous complexion, looks as handsome as ever, if a few years older. The Jersey Lily always asserts that the brilliancy of her complexion and the firmness of her skin are altogether due to her daily energetic constitutional. "A slow walk is little better than no walk. It is the rapid walk which brings the blood to the cheeks," says the famous beauty.

A woman of tact never says aught against her women friends when talking to a man. In almost every man's composition there is something which resents a disposition to injure those who are absent and unable to defend themselves.

The fight which the women of New York made to defeat Tammany will go down to posterity as a historical event in New York politics. Mrs. Josephine Shaw Lowell, the inspiration of the feminine forces, was ill almost from the beginning of the campaign. From her bed, however, she directed the movements of the different factions, consulting daily with a representative of each.

There were a larger number of horses entered by women this year at the New York horse show than ever before. Mrs. John Jacob Astor exhibited several saddle horses. Mrs. Foxhall Keene's horses were among the prize winners.

Mrs. Colenian Drayton's recent denial of all her husband's allegations, signifying her intention to oppose his application for a divorce, has caused people who knew her as "Lottie" Astor to become reminiscent. A woman who knew her as a child says that at 10 years of age she was noted among millionaire's children because of the little girls of her own age employed to wait upon her, and, to quote the reminiscent lady, they were "bossed" around considerably by their small, imperious mistress.

Something new and very sensible for the woman who must go out in bad weather is the rainy day outfit. It consists of a skirt and cape of cloth covered rubber. The mackintosh ulster, while excellent, invariably means bedraggled skirts underneath. These outfits come in small checks of dark colors and are becoming as well as useful.

The passion for bicycling among fashionable women has received a few shocks lately. Mrs. Clement C. Moore, a well known New York society woman, had a very serious fall, resulting in a sprained ankle, and Mrs. Harper Pennington, the wife of the artist, fell from her wheel, breaking her leg. It is reported that Mrs. Cleveland intends riding a bicycle. There have been some cruel rumors lately about the women bicyclists who have been independent enough to adopt the rational dress for wheeling. The makers of artificial sinews and muscles aver that they are unusually busy at present making padded calves for many of the women bicyclists. This rumor will confuse simple minded people, who imagined the bicycling costume meant a decrease of feminine vanity and an increase of good sense.

LAURA OLIVIA BOOTHE.

THE TATTLER.

Miss Anna E. Dickinson gave a dramatic reading at Mount Vernon, N. Y., recently for the benefit of a King's Daughters' circle.

Miss Constance Ingalls, the brightest of all Senator Ingalls' children, is soon to begin the publication of a weekly society paper in Atchison.

Mrs. Imre Kiraly, wife of the spectacular ballet man, took the oath of allegiance against Queen Victoria recently and became a naturalized citizen of New York.

Mrs. Arthur Dodge has the distinction of being considered the best dancer of the minuet among the society women known as the leaders of New York's Four Hundred.

It is understood that Mrs. Cleveland will be compelled to retire from society again this winter in anticipation of an interesting event that is expected to occur in March next.

Lena McClellan of St. Paul is believed to be the youngest stamp collector in the world. She is only 4 years old, but is as ardently devoted to her pursuit as any philatelist of more mature years.

Mrs. J. G. Carlisle's present to Miss Mattie Thompson on the occasion of the young lady's marriage was a painting done by her own hand, showing an Indian encampment in South America.

Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes, nee Platt, of Columbus, O., who recently married the son of the ex-president, possesses to an unusual degree the good qualities of mind and heart most to be admired in women.

Auntie Vedder of Jackson, Mich., has a hobby for buying costly dresses. She has followed this whim for many years, and as she never wears the gowns has now a collection unique in its beauty and old fashions.

Princess Belosselsky-Belozorsky, the daughter of General Whittier of Boston, who was married in Paris recently, is to be mistress this coming winter of an elegant villa the prince has leased for occupancy prior to going to St. Petersburg.

Mrs. Gilbert Fraser, wife of the English consul at New York, who, like the wife of the late consul general, Lady Booker, is an American, is in Europe superintending the art and musical education of her daughter, for whom the promises of proficiency are abundant.

Ladies Vernon Harcourt, Brinsley Sheridan and Francis Mildmay, three American women of title in England, are daughters of the late John Lothrop Motley, the historian and diplomat. It is said that neither of them has ever visited her native land since her marriage abroad, twenty odd years ago.

Baroness von Roques, the mother of Mrs. Maybrick, incarcerated in England for the alleged murder of her husband, continues her efforts to secure her daughter's release, notwithstanding obstacles and discouragements. The baroness is an American who had been twice married when she wedded the baron in 1867.

BRAZIL'S NEW PRESIDENT.

Dr. Moraes is the first president to be elected by the people, and the day was also the fifth anniversary of the foundation of a republican form of government in Brazil. Philadelphia Inquirer.

His first public act, that of sending an emissary to make peace with the rebels in the south, marks the new president's earnest desire to see the great southern republic advance on the lines of peace and commercial prosperity. New York Herald.

Dr. Moraes is the first Brazilian president who may fairly claim to have obtained office by the exercise of the political suffrages of the people. His inauguration, therefore, may be held to mark an era in the progress of Brazil toward its great destiny as the chief of the South American republics. Buffalo Express.

The affectionate welcome accorded to the new president upon his arrival at Rio de Janeiro by the retiring executive should effectually hush the malignant rumors concerning the sinister designs alleged to have been entertained by General Peixoto against the constitution of Brazil and the government of his successor. Philadelphia Record.

THE NEW CZAR.

None of the great European papers expresses much confidence in the new czar, but they all admit that his coming wife is a very sensible woman. Now, if the coming wife can succeed in making herself the czar of the czar, there is hope for Russia. Boston Globe.

The impression is gaining strength that the reign of the new czar will be marked by acts of liberalism. The Russian nation has not hitherto been spoiled with an excess of happiness, and to increase its sum of contentment should not be a difficult task. Philadelphia Record.

The young czar has evidently read some of the popular manifestoes of the German emperor. His affirmation that "the strength and stability of holy Russia lie in her unity to us and her unbounded devotion to us" reads like a sentence of the German emperor. New York Commercial

An Interview with Teller.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Senators Allen of Nebraska and Teller of Colorado, have returned to Washington ready again to take up the cudgel in defense of silver. Mr. Allen is of the opinion that the coming session will be consumed in the passage of appropriation bills, and more or less talk explanatory of what caused the recent landslide.

Mr. Teller, fresh from Colorado, says: "We have very little hope, if any, that this Congress or even the next will do anything for silver. There will be many plans brought forward relating to the currency and its revision, and there will be much severe criticism of the administration for its reprehensible conduct in issuing bonds as it did a few days ago. I am certain that the so-called Baltimore plan which the papers say the President is preparing to submit to Congress, will never meet the situation. It is a very poor plan, and will be jumbled on and trampled to death by the Senators from the Western States."

Georgia's War Governor Dead.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 30.—Ex-Governor Brown died at 2:30 this afternoon. He was the war Governor and was chief justice of the Supreme Court, and was since the war United States Senator. He has been in feeble health for more than three years. He was aged 83 years.

Daniel Sully To-night.

The popular Irish-American comedian, Mr. Daniel Sully, will present his new play, "O'Neill, Washington, D. C.," at the opera house this evening. The Salt Lake Herald in speaking of the play says: "On the whole it is a masterly production as far as the playwright is concerned, and we venture to say that it will meet with popular approval all over the country. The leading role in the hands of Mr. Sully was played with much tact and ability. He assumed throughout a reserve that was effective and tender. Whether he would have been more successful if he had been more "dramatic" we do not know, for we cannot judge of the power of a man we have only seen in "The Corner Grocery," except it would be to estimate that his capacity would be limited. But his rendition of this particular part last evening was as satisfactory as it was shrewd, and we shall hereafter look upon Mr. Sully as a good actor, who knows how to keep within the bounds of his capacity and to suggest greater power than he actually displays."

George R. Brush, surgeon in the United States navy, and a medical inspector with the rank of commander, died at the Antlers during Thursday night. Dr. Brush and wife arrived at the hotel about a week ago. He was suffering with consumption and in the last stages when he arrived. The remains were taken to New York last evening over the Rock Island by his wife. Surgeon Brush was about 50 years of age. He was appointed to the navy in September, 1861, and saw a great deal of service. He was appointed to the rank of medical inspector in January, 1889, and his last station was at the navy yards in New York. He was appointed from New York.

"For fifteen years, I was a great sufferer from indigestion in its worst forms. I tested the skill of many doctors, but grew worse and worse, until I became so weak I could not walk fifty yards without having to sit down and rest. My stomach, liver, and heart became affected, and I thought I would surely die. I tried Ayer's Pills and they helped me right away. I continued their use and am now entirely well. I don't know of anything that will so quickly relieve and cure the terrible suffering of dyspepsia as Ayer's Pills."—JOHN C. PRITCHARD, Brodie, Warren Co., N. C.

SILVER ... ..$.62½ | LEAD..... ...$3.00

Colorado Springs Exchange.

Colorado Springs, Nov 30. Quite a fair amount of business was transacted on 'change after the holiday making and it was spread fairly well over the entire list of stocks Union was called for the first time and the naming of it was received with the greatest favor ever awarded to any new stock. Trading in it was light and took more the nature of a feeler than aught else. The tone of the market was decidedly bearish and many of the stocks sold lower at the close than at the opening, this was particularly noticeable with A. J., Pharmacist and Work. Isabella also sold at low figures.

Had it not been for Specimen the second call would have been a dull affair, but as it was there were over 120,000 sold. Specimen was the most active and strongest stock on the list, and one block of over 100,000 changed hands. The other stocks were very much the same as in the morning, but Argentum J. brightened up considerably and sold as high at $1.45 Both Union and Pharmacist were fairly active, but both went at low figures. Isabella and Work are both off color, and the result is due, it is said in both cases, to a bear movement of the stocks. The total sales for the day were 139,750

The separate sales for the first call were, Anaconda, 1000 at 22, A. J., 500 at $1.47½, 1000 at $1.45, 500 at $1.43 and 100 at $1.42½, Bob Lee, 500 at 67 per 100; Isabella, 7000 at 17½; Mollie Gibson, 100 at $2.22½; Pharmacist, 5000 at 5½, 2000 at 5¾ and 2000 at 5¾ Specimen 1000 at 2¼, Union, 1000 at 12¾ and 1000 at 12¼; Work, 1000 at 3 and 6000 at 2⅞ For the second call they were: At J., 150 at $1.42½, 150 at $1.43 and 1000 at $1.37½; Consolidated, 1000 at 1⅞. Pharmacist, 7000 at 5¼; Specimen, 105,250 at 3 and 1950 at 4; Union, 500 at 12¾.

The Denver Pit.

Special to The Gazette.

Denver, Nov. 30—Business in the pit here this morning was backed by a fair amount of strength but the actions of some of the stock were decidedly peculiar. This was particularly noticeable in Bangkok and Big Six, any price from 16 to 20 was offered for these stocks at different periods of the call and it made but little difference and failed to bring out any stock Gold and Globe was fairly strong at 4⅝ bid, some of the stock sold as high as 4⅞ but closed a little weaker. Gibson went at $2.21 and $2.26 but closed weaker than that. Work was one of the most active stocks of the morning and sold at 3⅛.

THE COLUMBINE COMPANY.

A Brief Account of its Claims and Position at Camp

The Gazette has had numerous inquiries recently regarding the properties owned by the Columbine Gold Mining company, their location and the condition of the company. For the benefit of our readers we have ascertained the following facts: The company owns six claims, the Florissant, located on Grouse mountain, the Monte Christo, Requa, Monarch and Lady Emma on the south slope of Raven hill, below the Elkton, and the Panther and Panther No. 2 on the west side of Squaw mountain.

The Florissant, Monte Christo, Requa Monarch and Panther No 2 have passed the period of advertising without adverse, it only being necessary to pay for the land to complete patents. On the Panther there are three adverses involving a portion of the ground. The Lady Emma is a fractional claim on which application for patent has not yet been made The Florissant is being worked under a year's lease, has a large vein extending for several hundred feet within its lines and disclosed by shafts in three places; one shipment has been made which returned a fair profit; a proposition is now under advisement to convert this lease into a $25,000 lease and bond.

The Monte Christo, Requa Monarch and Lady Emma lie due south of the Elkton on a line with its vein and in the direction of its recent rich strike; as these claims cover 3000 feet east and west the Elkton vein cannot miss them if it continues that far Two well defined parallel veins 2 1-2 and 3 feet thick have been opened on the Monte Christo running with the claim; these have been traced for a considerable distance and assays from several shafts sunk on them have given returns of from $5 to $20 to the ton. Another east and west vein which shows 2 feet of fine quartz has been disclosed on the Requa Monarch. To develop the leads shown at the surface on these claims a tunnel was started in Requa gulch, is in about 70 feet and has cut one vein not opened on the surface. In about 60 feet further it will cut the first of the above veins and at a good depth. The Lady Emma has a 3-foot north and south vein running in the direction of the Elkton, opened by a 20-foot shaft and 15-foot drift and containing values as high as $62 per ton. The Panther is in the direct trend of the Kister vein but the company has done no prospecting for it, however, several good leads have been found on this and Panther No 2, but not sufficiently prospected to determine whether there is pay in them.

Rumors are current of a big strike of $50 ore in ground excluded from the patent survey of the Panther No 2, but for which the Columbine company holds a lease for a deed. Aside from mineral values this latter claim has a heavy growth of fine timber which is becoming very valuable. The company has no debts has 67,000 shares of stock in the treasury and is now considering leases on various portions of its territory. Its stock will shortly be listed on the local exchange.

Curb Sales.

There was not much doing on the curb yesterday and what trading there was centered itself chiefly in Golden Eagle, Columbine, Enterprise and Star of the West. This latter stock was the busiest of them all and was selling freely at 7-8 while a few small blocks went as high as 1 cent.

Mint Monthly Statement.

Special to The Gazette.

Denver, Nov. 30—From the first official figures, gotten out it is ascertained that the local branch mint has paid out during the month of November the sum of $50,927.95 for gold received For the same period last year the sum was much less and amounted to $171,814 27. This shows a gain of $339,113 68 or about 193 per cent. The deposits since July 1 number 1966, this is two or three hundred over the usual amount for the whole year and goes to show the heavy gain made in 1894

This morning the mint received 16 deposits El Paso sent in one of 25 ounces; Lake, two of 18 ounces, and San Miguel was responsible for six aggregating 509 ounces. Of this total 505 ounces came from the Tom Boy mine and 292 from the Suffolk the remainder coming from small depositors Mesa county sent in one of 7 ounces; Ouray one of 15 ounces; Boulder one of 11 ounces, and a local assayer four of 38 ounces.

Current News.

Union is a listed stock now.

Carnduff now shines as a bear in the pit

Pretty nearly a record day on 'change yesterday The total sales for the week are 339,000.

A block of 200 A J sold in Denver yesterday at $1 40 It was the only curb sale reported.

They say that there is trouble among the large holders of Work stock Hence the drop in price on 'change.

The Golden Eagle Mining company of Leadville, has declared its fourth monthly dividend. It is for 1½ cents per share.

The ladies visited the pit for the first time yesterday and were present at the first call when a fair amount of business was done.

Mr. George Lindley, of the brokerage firm of Lindley & Fitzpatrick, was responsible for the bulk of the trading at the first call and was busy buying A. J. and Isabella and selling Pharmacist.

Mr. Clarence Edsall now holds the record for the biggest sale of the stock on 'change The sale was made at the second call yesterday and was of 100,250 shares of Specimen at 2 cents Value $3,187 50.

A contract has been let for work on the Comstock lode belonging to the Golden Eagle company. Some of the ore from the present workings which was brought down from camp and did not look much like pay stuff ran $51 to the ton. The contractor is Mr L. Chivers

The Kentucky Belle company shipped one car of ore to Leadville this week of low-grade and one car to Denver of good ore, and they have about 300 sacks of their best ore ready for shipment. The statement in the Denver Times-Sun "that the enterprise was fostered by Kentucky capital, is entirely incorrect. The whole credit of the concern lies with Mr. H. J Sisty and one or two Colorado Springs people. Mr. Sisty not only located the mineral, but put the company and mine into its present envious position.

Mr. A. J. Shimp, the new manager for the lessees on the Dolphin lode, belonging to the Golden Age company is having some lumber hauled on Globe hill, where the properties of the company are located, and will have a substantial shaft house erected so that work may be continued without interruption during the winter months. The outlook in the Dolphin is very good and in the 22 feet drift at the bottom of the 100-foot shaft they have now encountered a foot of good-looking quartz ore No assays on the new find have yet been made.

The Creede and Cripple Creek company have given a lease on the Hillside lode, located on Gold hill, to the Brothers McCrosky. The time is for one year and the royalties about the same as the other leases of the company. The first royalties ever paid to the Creede and Cripple Creek people come from the Ocean Wave lessees who have in the past day or so made a small shipment of ore that runs $120 to the ton These lessees are working on a small streak of very rich ore but the vein as yet is somewhat broken up and it makes sorting rather slow work. It is thought, however, that depth will remedy this.

The Copper Mountain company's strike of lead, silver and gold ore reported in these columns, is said to be one of the big things of the camp. The ore will average over $60 to the ton, and being of a free fluxing nature, it will fetch a premium at the smelters. At the present rate of progress they are now gaining about eight inches in depth for every foot of tunneling done, and the vein is getting much more solid, as it is now nearly all ore. The company are arranging for the erection of a steam hoist and will make an up-raise to the surface so as to have a perpendicular shaft on the vein. They have now a perpendicular dept of 100, and the tunnel is timbered for over 215 feet. The ore is being sacked as fast as it is taken out, and a shipment will be made as soon as arrangements are made with the smelter people.

People interested in gold mining should examine the assaying outfit at room 24, Bank building. Quick and accurate.

INDUSTRIAL STOCKS DECLINE IN NEW YORK.

Sugar Takes a Tumble and the General List Shows a Decline—An Advance in Wheat and a Strong Market for Corn—Live Stock Markets

New York, Nov 30—Money on call has been easy at 1@1½ per cent, last loan at 1 and closing offered at 1 per cent. Prime mercantile paper 4@5 per cent Bar silver 61¾ Sterling exchange is strong with actual business in bankers bills at $4 86½@4 86¾ for 60 days, and $4 87½@4 88 for demand Posted rates, $4 87@4 88. Commerical bills, $4 85¾@4 86 Government bonds have been strong, State bonds dull, railroad bonds weak Silver at the board was 62¾ bid

The published statement of President Havemeyer of the American Sugar Refining Company announcing that owing to a lack of orders the refineries would be closed, led to a grand rush to sell the certificates at the opening An impression also prevailed that the directors will cut the January dividend at their meeting early next week, and this accelerated the downward movement There was a tremendous crowd of brokers around the Sugar post at the opening, and nearly every one of them appeared to have a selling order At the sound of the gong fully 6,000 shares were offered down to 81 against 89¾ at the close on Wednesday Further sales depressed the price to 83¼ after which under purchase to cover short contracts, a recovery of 81⅝@83¾ ensued In some quarters there was a disposition to criticise President Havemeyer, and it was stated that his action at this time was due mainly to a desire to influence Congress and head off the movement to place sugar on the free list Independent refiners, however assert that the business has been anything but profitable of late, and that Havemeyer was justified by trade conditions in closing up the refineries

Distillers was another weak spot in the early trading, and on the announcement of the proposed re-organization the price dropped from 9 to 7¾

The heaviness of the Industrial group was due in a great measure to a rumor that there had been a defalcation in one of the trusts American Tobacco was said to have been the sufferer, but this was officially denied It is intimated that there has been a defalcation, but that the securities of the concern are not dealt in at the stock exchange

The railway list was weak at the start but then improved 1@¾ per cent Subsequently the selling of the Grangers was resumed on a larger scale The October statement of Burlington was considered favorable at first, but when analyzed it was discovered that the road had been operated for 49 28 per cent, and this created a more bearish feeling

The sterling exchange market continues strong with rates dangerously near the gold exporting point It is said that some of the shippers expect to forward gold next week. Money was more active, however, and this may prevent shipments, notwithstanding present predictions Stocks closed steady at a net decline ranging from ¼ to 2⅞ per cent. Tobacco lost 4¾; Lake Shore gained ⅜ Total sales were 262,214 shares, of which 123,700 were Sugar.

The bond market was weak Sales $907 000

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 30—At the call price for wheat the advance in that grain received effectual check to-day. The weather in the Southwest was moist, and the signal service held out a prospect for a continuation of the rains in that section, but the effect that should have been produced thereby was not visible, a bullish feeling being generated by higher cables, light receipts 71 cars at Chicago and 710 in the Northwest), a report that Russians were buying back wheat they had previously sold in Liverpool at a loss, because they could not reach interior Russian points to obtain the grain wherewith to make delivery. Private cables placed the Argentine crop 30 per cent, or 20,000,000 bushels less than last, much capital being made of the announcement, but later in the day other advices were received which stated that the yield of that country for this year would exceed that of last by 16 000,000 bushels One report was as trustworthy as the other, and the unreliability of the conjectures are apparent Withdrawals from store were 43 160 bushels, and export clearances 235,329 bushels Continental cables were generally higher. May wheat opened from 69⅝ to 69¾, sold between 69⅞ and 69⅝, closing at 69⅞@69¾—½ cent higher than Wednesday Estimated receipts for tomorrow 100 cars.

Corn was quite strong to day, the wet weather being an important feature of the firmness Large withdrawals from store, 301 655 bushels, were also alluded to In connection with the firmness Cables were steady The higher market in Wheat was probably as potent as any other influence in forming the tone of corn Receipts $18-, ?-¼ more than expected and 720 are estimated for tomorrow May opened at 49¾, sold between 49¾ and 49 closing at 49@49¼—⅛@¼ higher than Wednesday

Wabash Route.

WHY TAKE THE WABASH

For St. Louis?

Because it is the shortest line, the best equipped line, runs free chair cars, buffet Pullmans, and gives you ample time in Kansas City for supper.

For Toledo or Detroit?

Because it is the shortest line, avoids transfer across the city in case you are going further east, and makes close connections with all trunk lines.

For New York or Boston?

Because it has solid through service from both Chicago and St. Louis via Niagara Falls; gives forty minutes stop at the falls at seasonable time in the morning.

For all other Eastern points?

Because its service is uniformly good and you can make no mistake in asking for tickets via the Wabash.

The Colorado Springs and Pueblo football teams each received about $125 as their share of the gate receipts on Thursday. It has been suggested that the Athletic association of the school join with other associations that play the game and buy enough rope to rope off the grounds. The paying public would get more for its money if somebody would go to that expense.

The Postal Telegraph company yesterday made the connection which completes its lines through to the Pacific coast. The line has been several years in building and the connection was made yesterday somewhere in Arizona. This gives this city direct connection by an all-copper wire line with San Francisco. Yesterday afternoon a Mexican who works for Gerling & Smith at the packing house borrowed their horse and buggy to drive the Mexican who was stabbed to the hospital. He left the animal get away from him without a bridle on but attached to the vehicle. The horse ran down the alley between Cascade and Tejon, turned west, then over to Tejon. It is a fortunate horse at a mad gait and had on for fast and people hurrying out of Morrissan a lively rate. The outfit was a loss, from Tejon street and had not for several dark.

[illegible] one W. M. Strickler last week sold [illegible] ranch on the Fountain creek, near [illegible] city. It was probably the largest [illegible] land in the county, numbering [illegible] acres. He sold it to Henry Linck, [illegible] has been his manager for a number [illegible] years and sold it very cheap getting [illegible] $10,000. Although Dr. Strickler has fully recovered from his late illness and has resumed his practice and also his full duties as mayor, yet he felt that the care of the ranch so far away was more than he cared to attempt again and took the first opportunity to dispose of it, even at a great sacrifice. He has made some successful experiments on the ranch in securing a water supply that will be of value in the future.

Rev. J. W. Finkbinder of Cumberland, Md., has accepted the call to the pastorate of the English Lutheran Church of this city. Mr. Finkbinder arrived yesterday and will take immediate charge. He is a very pleasant and genial gentleman. Mr. Finkbinder was located at Cumberland for eleven years and was held in the greatest esteem by his congregation. The Cumberland papers at the time he left there are filled with resolutions and accounts of the honors shown him. The ladies of the congregation as a parting token gave Mr. Finkbinder a handsome gold watch and the Sunday school also gave Mr. Finkbinder a gold watch. The congregation here is new but growing and the pastor will find a good field for work.
